Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Slavery Its Origin, Influence, and Destiny There are none who deny that slavery, in some way, and in some sense, is the principal cause of our civil war. For they who - abroad or at home - allege that it is caused by the actual and profound diversity between the two sections of the country as to their interests, their habits, and their character, do not deny that this diversity springs mainly from the existence of slavery in one only of the parties. And they who account for it by the angry and persistent vehemence of abolitionism, will not deny that if there were no slavery to be abolished there could be no abolitionism. It is not however worth while to use many words in proving a fact, which the map of our country demonstrates. But if it be certain that slavery in some way is the central cause of the civil war, it is by no means certain how, or why, this cause has produced this effect. If I offer for consideration the views...
